Report Summary: 2003 WIFA Residential Rate Survey

Report Summary

INTRODUCTION

The Water Infrastructure Finance Authority of Arizona is pleased to provide this 2003 Residential Rate Survey for drinking water and wastewater systems. This survey provides data on the unit rates and total monthly charges assessed by utilities throughout Arizona for water consumed and/or wastewater generated. The survey is based on current year (2003) data; where 2003 information was not available, the most recent prior year data was utilized.

This survey is limited only to the monthly base and usage charges assessed by Arizona utilities. No data was collected on other charges involved with the provision of water and wastewater service, such as connection charges, tap fees, impact fees, stand-by charges, late charges, etc. Nor is there any inclusion of sales taxes, sanitation charges or other fees that are sometimes included on a residential monthly water bill.

ARIZONA RATE STRUCTURES

There are many different rate structures for water and wastewater systems currently in effect in Arizona. The type of rate structure employed by a utility can have a significant impact on a customer's usage patterns and monthly bill for service. As noted in the American Water Works Association Manual M-1, an authoritative source for ratemaking throughout the United States, the most common type of rate structures include, but are not limited to:

Uniform Volume Charges – a single charge per unit of volume for all water used.

Declining Block Rates – a schedule of rates applicable to blocks of increasing usage in which the usage in each succeeding block is charged at a lower unit rate than in the previous blocks. Generally, each successive block rate is applicable to a greater volume of water delivery than the preceding block.

Inverted Block Rates – a schedule of rates applicable to blocks of increasing usage in which the usage in each succeeding block is charged at a higher unit rate than in the previous blocks. Generally, each successive block rate may be applicable to a greater volume of water delivery than the preceding block. The intent of an inverted block rate is to encourage conservation by providing a financial disincentive to consumers for increasing amounts of water use.

Lifeline Rates – rates applicable to usage up to a specified level that are below the cost of service for the purpose of meeting the social goal of providing minimum annual water requirements to qualified customers at a below-cost price.

Off-Peak Rates – rates charged for usage during designated off-peak periods.

Seasonal Rates – rates based on the cost of service variations with respect to system seasonal requirements. For example, higher rates may be charged during the summer months when a system peak occurs, which requires facilities not needed to meet lower winter loads.

Fixed Monthly Charges – usually applicable to wastewater systems; involves the assessment of a single fixed charge for service regardless of the amount of water consumed or wastewater discharged.

The type of rate structure placed into effect by a utility will have significant economic, social and policy implications for the affected community. For example, a utility that charges for service based on Inverted Block rates will likely have a different total charge for a given level of usage than a utility that charges based on uniform rates. In addition to recovering sufficient revenues to fund operations, specific rate designs can be used to enforce policy goals, such as conservation (Inverted Block rates), system efficiency (Off-Peak rates) or assistance to needy or low-income ratepayers (Lifeline rates).

Furthermore, there are other factors within the type of rate structure implemented that may also have an impact on a customer's monthly charges. For example, some utilities choose to implement a high monthly minimum charge and a lower monthly volume rate, while other utilities do the opposite. Certain utilities provide a large allowance of gallons within the monthly minimum charge, others provide a limited allowance, and still others provide no allowance of gallons at all. On the wastewater side, some utilities charge a volumetric rate based on a "winter average", which sets a maximum usage level at the average of the customer's water usage during the winter months. Other utilities base wastewater charges on a straight percentage of total water volume, while still others use a fixed monthly charge.

Many variables effect the determination of a utility's cost of service and the ultimate rate it implements for its consumers. These variables can result in significantly different total costs and rates between even neighboring utilities. These variables include, but are not limited to:

- Water Source – is the utility using ground water, surface water or a combination? If ground water is used, what is the depth from which the water must be extracted? How extensive a treatment process is required to convert the raw water into potable water for end users?

- Transportation/Distribution – are the utility’s customers primarily rural or urban based? Is the customer base densely populated or more widely disbursed?
- System Age – is the system older, requiring more repair/replacement expenditures, or newer, installed to service the state’s rapid growth of the past decade?
- Economies of Scale – is the system larger and better positioned to take advantage of the economies of scale inherent in water and wastewater systems?
- Grant Funding – is the utility eligible for state and federal grants to offset some of the costs of system repair and expansion?
- Use of Tax Bonds – is the system able to, and does it choose to, finance a percentage of capital expenditures through the issuance of tax bonds (financed through property or sales taxes) as opposed to revenue bonds (financed through user rates)?
- General Fund Subsidies – (particularly applicable to municipal utilities) are the utility’s rates being used to offset a portion of the General Fund through contributions? To the contrary, are the utility’s rates not covering its cost of service, thus requiring a subsidy from the General Fund in order to meet all expenses?
- Return on Investment – (particularly applicable to private sector utilities) what is the utility’s allowed rate of return on investment?

Because of these fundamental cost differences between utilities, a high rate or a low rate does not necessarily reflect the efficiency of the utility’s operation. Therefore, the results of this survey alone should not be used to judge the effectiveness of the operation of any specific utility. Instead, this survey will be useful by providing general comparisons between systems and communities.

SURVEY METHODOLOGY AND KEY FINDINGS

A residential household water consumption level of 7,750 gallons per month was chosen as the representative usage amount for this survey. This number was derived by utilizing an average of 2.5 persons per household, 100 gallons per capita per day, and 31 days per month. The average usage of 7,750 gallons per month was also utilized in the prior residential survey, which was released in 1999, and is judged to be a reasonable residential usage level for benchmark and comparative purposes. Residential wastewater rates were calculated in a similar manner using an assumed monthly wastewater flow of 5,000 gallons per household, which also represents the same amount as used in the prior study.

Utilities throughout the state set different minimum gallon usage levels for their water and wastewater rate designs. Therefore, when comparing total monthly charges, it is beneficial to compare a consumption level that will incorporate both minimum and volumetric charges. The use of 7,750 gallons for monthly water consumption and 5,000 gallons for monthly wastewater flow achieves this objective for the vast majority of utilities in Arizona.

Data was collected for a total of 438 drinking water systems in Arizona. According to the data collected for these systems, the monthly water charges for 7,750 gallons of water consumption ranged from $5.61 at Grandview Water Company, Inc. to $99.60 at Mt. Lemmon Cooperative Water Service. The average monthly charge for 7,750 gallons of water service was $30.16, and the median monthly charge was $28.01.

Data was collected for a total of 122 wastewater systems in Arizona. According to the data collected for these systems, the monthly wastewater charges for 5,000 gallons of wastewater ranged from $2.50 at the City of Tolleson to $80.00 at Kings Ranch. The average monthly charge for 5,000 gallons of wastewater service was $21.69, and the median monthly charge was $17.12.
